

シンポジウム “光と皮膚と化粧品”

3) 光線過敏症の臨床

堀尾 武*

Clinical Aspects of Photosensitivity Diseases

Takeshi HORIO*

Abstract

Sunlight induces various kinds of adverse reactions in the skin. Photosensitivity diseases develop through dissimilar etiologies, mechanisms and/or action spectra of light. Therefore, we must know the clinical features of these disorders in detail to make correct diagnosis or treat the patients. In this article, several selected photosensitive patients are shown, and the pathogenesis of the reactions is briefly discussed.